Colorado State’s Visiting International Program

After more than one hundred years of welcoming international students, Colorado State University is extending its welcome to international undergraduates who wish to study at CSU for one or two semesters.

The Visiting International Program (VIP) is designed for international students who plan to graduate from their home university but who want the experience of study and campus life at CSU.

Why choose CSU?

- CSU ranked in the top tier of public and private universities in U.S. News and World Report rankings of America’s Best Colleges and Universities.
- CSU ranked in the top 200 World Universities by the Shanghai Jiao Tong University Index.
- CSU enrolls undergraduates from all 50 states in the U.S. and 79 foreign countries.

Where?

Fort Collins, Colorado

- Population: 131,000
- 100 kilometers north of Denver
- Average sunny days per year: 300
- Fort Collins was ranked first in “Best Places to Live in America” in 2006 by Money Magazine.

How much?

Students pay non-resident tuition and fees and are eligible for all student fee services including the CSU Health Network, Recreation Center, Housing, Career Center, and more. Based on 2012-2013 estimates, students will pay approximately $20,000 per semester (includes tuition, fees, insurance, books, and living expenses).

Will class credits transfer?

The VIP program allows you to take classes at CSU that will transfer back to your home University. While all classes are not guaranteed to be open, there are hundreds of classes to choose from over a wide variety of disciplines.

Where will you live?

At CSU, you can choose from a full range of living options that speak directly to your interests. Students accepted into the VIP Program are responsible for arranging their own housing. We strongly advise you to arrange your living accommodations before you arrive in Fort Collins.

Residence Halls

There are 13 residence halls at CSU with meal plan options.

Campus Apartments

Single and family apartments available in four complexes.

Residential Learning Communities

An integrated academic and social learning experience in a residence hall setting.

Living Off Campus

Students find housing in the Fort Collins Community.
